HOFFA IS INTERESTED IN LOCATING I. C. SHOPS HERE

We are printing a letter written by Col.. W. B. Hoffa to Mr. L. A. Downs, President of Illinois Central System relative to moving the I C., Shops from Paducah, Kentucky to Grenada and Mr. Downs' reply:

Grenada, Miss., June 16, 1937.
Mr. L. A. Downs, President
Illinois Central Railroad Co.
Chicago, Illinois,
Bear Mr. Downs:

We rejoice with you on the largely increased business of the I. C. R. R. Company and take especial pride in the fact of the Grenada office's substantial contribution to that end. The Grenada office came second only to Birmingham on the whole Mississippi Division in earnings for the month of April, Birmingham 102 thousand, Grenada 93 thousand and Jackson, Tenn., 45 thousand. During the late overflow Grenada (which is permanently above all overflow) gave a most remarkable demonstration of her value to your System as a divisional office by taking care of all your Y. & M. V. train service. As a divisional point between Jackson, Tenn., and Jackson, Miss. Grenada stands unexcelled as a strategic and economic necessity. Won't you and your board take advantage of the opportunity now yours and put in Divisional office and terminals here rather than take the risk of trusting all to the Paducah situation again? Grenada will be glad to cooperate with you in every way. Your employees would welcome such a move as being very advantageous and profitable to your System. Won't you try it out in a small way, if not fully? Please write me.

I beg your pardon for saying it, but I have been the means of bringing to Grenada within the last thirty-three years industries that have paid out here over thirty millions of dollars in payrolls, which has originated freight that has paid your road many, many

Young Boy Loses Life As He Drills For Scouting Test

Nephew of Joe Enderlin Died of Broken Neck in Memphis Swimming Pool

Fourteen year old Joseph Elon Chambers, son of Mr. S. E. Chambers, assistant cashier of Commercial & Industrial Bank of Memphis, and nephew of J. E. Enderlin, of Grenada, died in the Fair Grounds swimming pool in Memphis Saturday afternoon, July 10 of a broken neck while practicing for his last test which would have made him a first class scout.

How he received the injury that caused his death has not been determined as his body was discovered on the bottom of the pool about 24 feet from the diving tower.

Joseph was an honor pupil at Bellevue Junior High School, where he graduated in June. He was winner in the recent West Tennessee Latin tournament and spent a great part of his time in his chemical laboratory at his home. At every opportunity Joseph attended lectures at the Goodwyn Institute. It was because of his zeal for study that his parents had urged him to seek more time outdoors.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. at Sacred Heart Church and burial was at Calvary with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Enderlin attending.

GRENADA FARMERS COOPERATE IN 1937 SOIL CONSERVATION

(By J. L. Cooley, County Agent)

Final tabulations show that 599 farmers of the county made work sheets to participate in the Soil Conservation program while 628 work sheets were made under the 1936 program. This sign-up comprises 22,923 acres and 17,665 planted acres of cotton; 2,066 acres of corn alone; 17,960 acres of corn interplanted with peas, soy beans; 3,381 acres of peas and soy beans alone; 2,637 acres of lespedeza and 642 acres of other miscellaneous crops. The 1937 sign-up represents 91% of the total work sheets signed under the 1936 program.

Increased Cotton Acreage Small

While the general impression is that we have large increased acreage of cotton this year, tabulations show that the farms cooperating in the 1937 program have planted only 5% more cotton than they planted in 1936. It is estimated that farmers not cooperating in the 1937 program increased their cotton acreage from 5 to 10 per cent.

A total of 55378 acres of crop land are included in the farms cooperating in the 1937 Conservation Program. 32% of this acreage or 17665 acres will be planted to cotton. Our farmers will receive diversion payments for reducing their normal cotton acreage 23% or 5260 acres. This diversion payment will amount to approximately $45,000.00. In addition, the 5260 diverted acres will be planted to summer and winter growing soil building crops and approximately 1500 acres will be terraced for which our farmers will receive about $78,000.00 in soil building payments.

Mid-July Prospect Indicates Another Prosperity Period

Cotton Growing Well; Grain, Forage, Food Crops Better Than Any Recent Year.

Another prosperous year in Mississippi agriculture is foreseen as cotton price is maintained in the face of increased acreage reports and optimistic yield forecasts, and as Mid-July prospects for grain and forage crops are most promising.

The Federal estimate of cotton acreage points to 34,192,000 acres as compared with 30,960,000 a year ago. This is an increase of 10.4% in the cotton belt and of 12% in Mississippi. Students of cotton market feel that the price rise immediately following the publication of increased acreage report gives a degree of assurance that another price tragedy will not be forthcoming this year.

"Of course," stated J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture, "prospects are now promising, and it will be possible for the entire belt to make a bumper crop as did Mississippi last year, but weevil damage is yet to be faced and an average crop seems a good guess. Such a crop at the present price on 3,371,000 acres planted in Mississippi this year, will yield a cotton income comparable with that of last year.

"It is possible that much of the increased cotton acreage was achieved at the cost of feed crop acreage. Offsetting this, and considering that all crops are somewhat spotty, Mississippi has nevertheless one of the best mid-July prospects for grain and forage crops for many years. Insufficient rainfall is the usual limiting factor, and on much of the land planted to corn, hay, food and forage crops, moisture already in the ground will mature crops far in advance of any in past few years.

"All these factors add up to yield a satisfying prospect. No one can safely predict price, for to name just one price factor, it could move upward with a shorter than average crop or downward with a bumper crop. The market seems prepared for a 14-million bale yield at present price or better and the cotton income prospect is therefore pleasing. Possibly the largest farm expenditure is for feedstuffs, and the present attractive crop, which is fast passing beyond the point of weather damage, means that we will likely make more bushels of grain and

THE BATTLE OF FRANKLIN

(By W. E. Boushe)

Out from Franklin, Tenn., a long lines of earthen breastworks and trenches. The grass upon these mounds is green or in winter, snow white. Wild flowers grow and children play in peace. The birds sing in the trees all day long; picnickers love to gather in so beautiful a place. But seventy-five years ago, Franklin saw a different day—a day of blood and desolation, for here on November 30, 1864, was fought a battle between the North and South. Of more importance to Grenadians than any battle of the Civil War from the point of casualties to our boys and the ferocity of the conflict. To quote Col. Binford: "Many attempts have been made to describe that battle, but impossible. Suffice it to say, the annals of history, ancient or modern, record no bloodier, more hotly contested or more deeds of individual valor than the battle of Franklin'." The charge of the immortal 600 at Balakava pales by comparison. Had the Confederacy never fought another battle, this alone would have made it immortal and shed a luster over Southern arms and Southern valor, a brilliant light in the Southern crown. But at the time it was the most useless, uncalled-for, ill-timed battle of war.

Now to the beginning: Gen. Hood had taken over command of the canteens but able Confederate General J. E. Johnston, hoping to decoy Sherman from Atlanta, he made a dash to the rear of Sherman, swept through Alabama, crossed the Tennessee River at Florence, and swiftly advanced on Nashville. General Sherman sent his most able leader, General Thomas with the arm of the Cumberlain to intercept him in the mountains. The western army of Tennessee, on the Union side was under General Schofield and numbered forty-two thousand, two thousand more than Hood had under his command. On the night of the 29th day of November, Schofield made a rush to get to the breastworks of Franklin, which had already been prepared. Why Hood did not stop him. why he allowed him to intrench, has never been answered. Not a private in the Confederate army but knew that a terible blunder was being made. Hood could have destroyed the yankee army before entrenchment. Mr. Lute Jones, of Hernando himself,

The Upper Tier of Counties Begins Melon Movement

Quality Melons Urged as Surest Means of Upholding Price and Bilding Future

As the upper tier of counties begins the movement of the 1937 watermelon crop, the production and shipment of quality melons is urged as the surest means of upholding price and building for the future.

Last year, it will be remembered the South Mississippi watermelon movement was maintained through out at attractive prices. Attractive prices marked the beginning of the movement in North Mississippi, but moved downward until at the close of the season melons were hardly worth shipping. The South Mississippi melons of last year were reported to be the finest quality on the markets of the country, and sold at a premium over melons from other states. A sufficient number of North Mississippi melons were reported as unsatisfactory in quality, principally because of greenness, to greatly reduce the price of all melons afterwards shipped.

"The Federal-State Inspection Service is maintained by the Federal and State Departments of Agriculture, in cooperation with growers and shippers, to insure a square deal to local people as well as to give to the ultimate consumer a definite assurance of quality," stated J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture. "Licensed inspectors of melons are stationed at shipping points as desired, and issue certificates showing the numerical count and weight of melons, as well as quality, condition and grade. Last year many carloads of melons were shipped from the Northern district certified as to count and weight only, and such procedure permitted the shipment of green and off-quality melons which were nevertheless of good appearance. It is to be hoped that growers and shippers will insist this year upon the complete certification service—numerical count, weight, quality, condition, and grade.

"Mississippi has made remarkable progress in the commercial production of watermelons during recent years. In 1933 the total movement from the entire state was only 34 car loads. This was increased to 280 carloads in 1934, and to 421 in 1935. Last year we shipped over twice as many melons as ever before when the move-

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION FOR GRENADA COUNTY

At the July meeting of the Board of Supervisors the sum of $300.00 was appropriated for the purpose of making an electrical survey of Grenada county. It is the understanding of the board that the electrification of Grenada county can be accomplished through the Mississippi Rural Electrification Authority providing the proper survey is made.

We are printing a letter from the Rural Electrification Authority directed to the members of the board of supervisors which explains the steps necessary to secure electric service for the rural communities of our county:

In re. Rural Electrification and TVA Power.

To the Members of the Board of Supervisors:

Gentlemen:

We know of no greater contribution you can make to the development of your county than to make it possible for farm homes to secure electric service.

From surveys made by the R. E. E. and with limited funds we have previously had, we have filed applications with the Rural Electrification Administrator at Washington to build over 1,000 miles of rural power lines to serve farm homes. Five of these projects have been approved and $587,000.00 appropriated to construct these lines.

These projects are well distributed throughout the state, being located generally in the areas centering in the counties of Coahoma, Lafayette, Leake, Copiah, Pearl River and Hancock.

Since we have no further support fund left, and as it will require approximately $300 per county to run these necessary surveys and tabulate the information prior to filing the application with Washington, it is necessary that we obtain funds to complete this work from other sources. This letter is to inquire if the Board of Supervisors in your county would make available the sum of $300 to conduct a survey in your county to determine the areas adapted to the construction of a rural power line.

If the work can be done for less

To Establish Clinic In Jackson, Miss.

(By J. S. Vandiver)

The Crippled Children's Service of the State Department of Education is cooperating with the State Board of Health in the establishment in Jackson of a clinic for the cases of infantile paralysis which have developed in Mississippi since January 1, 1937.

Every physician in the state has been instructed how to secure the admittance of these cases into the clinic and will be glad to arrange for a date for his patients. Parents of these afflicted children should get this information from their family doctors and plan to secure treatment as early as possible.

Every precaution will be taken in transit to and from clinic and no contacts will be made with other patients, so that there will be no danger whatsoever in the transportation of these children.

The State Department of Education joins the State Board of Health in urging our people not to become panicky. This is no time for panic, but for courage and work to see that the little fellows from each county who are the victims of this disease be given corrective orthopedic treatment as soon as possible.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR OFFERS HOT WEATHER HEALTH HINTS

The present widespread heat wave has led Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, to issue a health warning, cautioning every one to take simple safeguards that their health may not be impaired by the extreme temperatures.

Dr. Fraser offers ten Health Hints for Hot Weather that are easily followed by young and old. They are:

1. Take it easy—don't rush around.
2. Wear a hat out in the sun.
3. Wear cool, loose fitting clothes.
4. Get plenty of rest and sleep.
5. Eat moderately of easily digested foods.
6. Drink plenty of cool (not ice cold) liquids.
7. Exercise moderately.
8. Take frequent tepid (not cold) baths.
9. Do not stay in direct sunshine for long periods.
10. Avoid large meetings in poorly ventilated auditoriums.

"If all of us would observe these rules," Dr. Fraser said, "our general physical condition would be vastly improved and we would be able to withstand hot weather with much less difficulty."

In commenting on his ten Health Hints for Hot Weather, Dr. Fraser feels that children are more apt to forget rules five and six, which are extremely important for them, while adults are very likely to ignore rules one, and frequently six.

"Children, because they really don't know any better, are very prone to overeat, and to gulp large quantities of ice cold 'pop'

HOME FINANCING

Washington, D. C., July 12—The major part of home financing in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, and Texas is being done by member institutions of the Federal Loan Bank of Little Rock, it was revealed in reports received today by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

A special survey of savings, building and loan and homestead association activities in the Little Rock Bank district showed that, as of March 1937, members of the Little Rock Bank held 80 per cent of the assets of all active associations.

Assets totaled $179,000,000, of which $42,000,000 were in Federal savings and loan associations $101,000,000 in state-chartered member associations, and $36,000,000 in non-memberc associations. Since this survey began, a number of these non-member institutions have become members of the bank.

During 1936 the new loans made by all associations in the Little Rock Bank district, including members and non-member institutions, totaled $39,908,000. Of this $13,569,000 was loaned by Federal associations; $20,394,000 by state-chartered members, and $5,945,000 by non-members. During the first four months of 1937, new loans made by all associations increased 14 per cent, from $12,938,000 last year to $14,697,000 this year.

Another report received by the Board told of expanding home financing activities in all sections of the bank district. This was based upon information obtained by the bank at recent sectional group meeting in 17 cities in which representatives of 173 associations participated.

The Little Rock Bank is now conducting a systematic savings and home financing campaign, of which these meetings were the forerunner.

Rankin County to Join Fire Program

Jackson, Miss.—Mississippi Forest Service officials are obtaining satisfaction from the action of the Rankin county board of supervisors in signifying their intention to join in the state forest fire protection program.

A. K. Dexter, chief of forest fire control, said the board unanimously adopted a resolution to join in the program this fall when annual county budgets are adopted and tax levies fixed.

Meantime, the board hopes to receive expressions from taxpayers on the proposal. Rankin would become the 18th Mississippi county joining in the forest fire protection program through which six million acres of valuable timber land is being protected at this time.

The board statedly took its action after surveying the effectiveness of the program in protecting timber resources in other counties.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

About every time I pick up a paper, I see where the Gov't is goin' to do something different about something or other—like raisin' less cotton, or more corn or vice versa, this month versus next month.

And doin' all these things, it takes lots of folks, and that is why there is a shortage of buildings to put 'em in down there on the Potomac.

And from what I read, there is enough people on the pay roll down there, and scattered around the country, to count every chinch-bug in the nation, personally. And when they get 'em counted and tabulated ,they won't have much idea why they did it or what they gonna do about it, like the feller who tapped the wheels on the trains as they came into the depot, and we have all seen him.

And this wheel tapper, when he was gettin' a medal for 30 years service, the railroad President said to him, John, you tell the people here about your job and why you tap the wheels—and John said, By cracky, you know I've often wondered about that my ownself.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

TEN SECRETARY-TREASURERS PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION MEET IN N. O.

Ten secretary-treasurers of the production credit associations, which serve the short-term credit needs of farmers throughout Mississippi, met in New Orleans July 7, for a two-day program of credit studies with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank which discounts all their agricultural loans. The meeting as conducted under the joint direction of Jesse B. Hearin, President of the Production Credit Corporation, and J. Martin Magruder, President of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. The conferences will be held in the Directors' room in the new Farm Credit Administration building.

Similar meetings were held during the early part of this week with the secretary-treasurers of the eight Louisiana associations, and the eight Alabama secretary-treasurers will hold their meeting on July 22 and 23.

The purpose of these meetings is to discuss operating methods and exchange ideas and experiences which will be helpful in improving the service of the production credit associations, which are located in 26 communities strategically distributed throughout the three states. These associations will make seasonal loans to farmers for the production of crops, warehousing and marketing, and for dairying and cattle raising. There will also be discussed matters of general interest in agriculture which have specific bearing upon the handling of such short-term credit in this district.

Little Girl Dies

(Contributed)

Little "Jerry", daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cunningham, was taken from this world of sin and suffering to go and live with the precious Saviour. The death angel took her about 4:30 a. m., July 3, 1937. She was born January 29, 1935. We don't understand why God took our darling from us, but we know that He never makes a mistake.

She leaves to mourn her death, her father, mother, three sisters and one brother, and grandfather, G. P. Cunningham, also many other relatives and friends. She was loved by all that knew her.

THE STATE PLANT BOARD SAYS

Don't use Calcium Arsenate in spraying or dusting peach trees, as it is almost certain to injure the foliage and fruit. Calcium arsenate may be used on apples, Irish potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, and several other plants, but lead arsenate should be used on peaches.

Ant hills in gardens are a source of trouble as nearby plants are often killed. Scald with boiling water, treat with kerosene, or better still, fill a machine oiler with carbon bisulphate or "high life" and squirt liberal amounts of it down into the nests, immediately covering the entrances with mud to prevent the poisonous gas from escaping.

Letter From A Valued Subscribers

Editor of Grenada Sentinel,
Dear Sir:

Dear old paper, I have read for sixty years nearly. I, like Jim Vardaman, have ideals and have the guts to speak them so do not get scared.

I hope Mississippi has a man who wears his own pants and will offer a resolution to take care of the "you must do as I say." The Arizona Republic printed an article claimed to have been copied from the New York Times, "John Lewis Contributed Five Hundred Thousand Dollars to Elect F. D. R. provided said F. D. R. would hands off the Labor Union if elected," That, I do not know, but this I do know, said F. D. R. has said nor did anything to stop John Lewis.

I want or hope one or all of us men in Congress will offer his or a similar bill, that both parties in the manufacturing or printing anything of or in the State or Nation shall sign a contract before a notary public.

A bill to keep the peace and protect both labor and capital. The party of the first part is capital, and if the party of the first part refuses or fails to carry out his part, he or they shall pay to the party of the second part what he or they would have made had the contract been carried out and if the party or parties of second part fails or refuses to carry out his agreements he or they shall forfeit all money earned but not yet received and must leave the place of his employment or the sheriff shall put him or them away from their place of employment and see that they stay away, and moreever any person or persons who entices, induces or persuades a man to take this contract shall be fined not less than one thousand nor more than five hundred thous. and or from one to fifty years in prison. The emergency of his honor demands harsh measures and no fooling.

I look forward to The Sentinel every week and enjoy every number.

Most respectfully,
Jeff D. Baker.

R. 5, Box 79,
Phoenix, Arizona.

F. R. Schutt Consulttant to F. B. Merrill

Jackson, Miss.—Frank R. Schutt vice president and general manager of the Peabody Hotel, of Memphis, recently acted as consultant to State Forester Fred B. Merrill and Mrs. Paul Gamble, park commissoiner, on a tour of several of the state's nine new parks.

Merrill, park supervisor, and Mrs. Gamble drew upon Schutt's knowledge of hotel management and administration as it might be applied in operation of the parks.

The three visited the LeRoy Percy park at Hollandale, Holmes County Park at Durant, Legion Park at Louisville, and Tombigbee Park at Tupelo.

Merrill quoted Schutt as amazed at the extent of the parks and vast development each is undergoing. Schutt predicted that with judicious management the parks will become self-supporting.

The park program is being carried forward through cooperation of the federal and state governments.

HISTORY OF GRENADA COUNTY SHOULD BE COMPLETED

The history of Grenada and Grenada County has not been completed. This work was carried on by the WPA's historical research project and for some reason came to a stop.

Grenada and Grenada county has much colorful history of which there is no complete official record. If we can only get the history completed we will have something of real historical value. It will be permanent and will increase in value as time goes on. There are some mighty good historians in Grenada County now. We rely on them mainly when we wish to know the facts of our early history. Among them are Miss Lida Owens and Mr. W. E. Boushe. These good people are not going to live always and we are just wondering what we are going to do for facts on the history of our county when they have passed on. If the WPA would only authorize the completion of this work we would have something to fall back on.

The research work will not cost Grenada County one penny. The funds are provided by the WPA. We urge all our citizens who are interested in this work to write our representatives in Washington and urge them to see that this work is completed.

THE CONQUESTS OF COTTON

The trend for the use of cotton bags for packaging cement is downward, observes the Agricultural Department. But we observe in the parks and along the avenue cotton slack pants on parade, so what of it if the cement trust uses multi-wall paper to pack its product. We win our wars, blast rocks for highways, tunnel under rivers and through mountains and remove stumps from farm lands with cotton. From it we manufacture rubber tires and lacquer the bodies and coat the leather-like fabrics of the upholstery of our cars. Among a thousand industrial uses cotton is included in ivory-like toilet articles, airplane wings, parachutes and cotton roads. The chemists, scientists and inventors are sticking tight to Southland's cotton, and they are constantly making new and better products out of it. You may bet your bottom-dollar that cotton will always be King.

JOHN PETTEY

Greenwood will note with gratification the announcement that the National Cottonseed Products Association has elected John Pettey as president of that Association.

It is a good selection, and one that well deserved. Devoted as it is to the increasing use of cottonseed products, the National Association in its selection of John Pettey has paid deserved honor to a man who has advanced the interests of cottonseed over a long number of years.

It was due to John Pettey that Mississippi has not on its statute books today a law forbidding the use of a cottonseed product in its state institutions and a prohibitive tax laid upon the sale of oleomargarine. It is due to John Pettey more than any one man, that the Congress of the United States laid a protective tariff for cottonseed products against oils imported from foreign countries which made serious inroads into the market for cottonseed products.

John Pettey has worked in season and out of season for the advancement of the interests of the South, of Mississippi, his country and his city. No task has been too heavy for him to undertake if its accomplishment resulted in benefit to others.

The National Cottonseed Products Association has honored itself in honoring John Pettey, and Greenwood people are much gratified at this recognition of a splendid public spirited citizen.—Greenwood Commonwealth.

A NICE BIG STINK

According to the Mississippi Industrial Commission it is quite likely that a paper mill will be located on the Tombigbee river in the vicinity of Columbus.

A number of citizens have raised the point that it might stink too bad. Well, it will, but we say let her stink. With the stink will come new money in the form of pay rolls. Men who have been on relief will receive their livelihood from industry. The merchants will benefit, the railroads will benefit, the community will benefit and the whole south will likewise benefit.

It has been proven that newsprint can be manufactured from Mississippi gumwood and southern pine. Over two hundred million dollars worth of newsprint is consumed annually and if Mississippi can get only a part of this trade it will be a big addition to the expanding volume of manufactured goods of the state.

Yes, we say let the paper mills come, stink or no stink.

PATHFINDERS OF PROGRESS

A modern bard hit the bull's eye when he observed that "God made the country, man made tde town." In the early triumphs of twon life men boisterously claimed that he had improved upon the work of the Creator.

Cumulative contradictory evidence can be piled columns high, adding to the indictment of the "town that man made," by reference to social statistics. On the other hand the chief charge against "the country that God made" is that its inhabitants long complained that "it is too lonesome." And so progress in transportation developed new ways of life, new plans of homes and the best highways on the face of the earth.

The processes of decentralization of industry in the interests of local communities have been expanding rapidly. General Motors that began in Michigan now distributes its employment. Industry purchases raw and manufacturers material from hundreds of sources and returns the benefits it receives to local neighborhoods everywhere.

FREE COMMERCE

Section eight of Article one of the Constitution says: "The Congress shall have power . . . to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes."

The reason for that was clear: It was necessary to give the federal government some control over the shipment of goods from one state to another so there would be no state tariffs and no artificial trade barriers. No state then or now produced enough for its own needs. The idea was to stimulate rather than restrict interstate commerce.

As the years marched along, the interpretation of that clause in the Constitution was gradually widened always in the direction of removing restrictions from interstate commerce. The Wagner Act was based upon the theory that labor disputes may halt or slow down commerce, and therefore labor disputes should be avoided.

For nearly 150 years, Congress has reserved that power to itself. No state, no city, no single group was allowed to assume the power vested in Congress. But now we find a new and startling situation arising.

On every hand, strikes—which the Wagner Act was supposed to stop—are halting interstate commerce. Pickets keep trains from running and hauling goods; they stop trucks on the highways and overturn them; they even intercept and censor mail. Goods cannot be shipped unless they are produced, yet time and again pickets refuse to let men who want to work get to their jobs. They try to stop production of auomobiles and coal because they are engaged in a fight with steel mills. Their aim is to use their every ability to stop commerce.

The question is a pertinent one: Shall Congress, vested by the Constitution with the sole power to regulate commerce among the states, complaisantly yield that power to an organized minority? For out of the 128,000,000 people in the United States, fewer than 5,000,000 belong to all the labor unions. The other 123,000,000 suffer most when commerce is stopped.

CIO, TROUBLE MAKERS

Without prejudice to the just cause of labor the Commercial Dispatch has critized the radicalism of the John L. Lewis CIO outfit.

We believe this criticism is justified in the interest of the national welfare, and particularly the welfare of the South and its people.

Here's confirmation of our conception of the CIO:

We quote from a speech by Congressman Cox of Georgia in the Congress:

"CIO representatives are now working in the south, preaching social, political and economic equality to the colored population," Mr. Cox charged.

If the mimions of the CIO attempt to carry through the south their lawless plan of organization, if they attempt to demoralize our industry, to corrupt our colored citizens, to incite race hatreds and race warfare, I warn them here and now that they will be met by the flower of southern manhood and they will reap the bitter fruits of their own folly. "I call upon the national and state governments to cease aiding and abetting John L. Lewis and his associates in the formation of this labor-political-communistic movement."

Congressman Cox goes to the heart of the problem, and he calls upon the South to protect itself against the radicalism of the Communistic Lewis movement.

He need have no fear. The South will take care of the situation to which he refers.

Pond-Stocking Fish Can Be Secured Under Rescue Program

Persons Desiring Fish Will be Required to Furnish Own Transportation

Jackson, Miss., July 14—With one of the greatest natural fish hatcheries along the Mississippi River in slough and borrow pits, George C. Weathers, state game and fish commissioner of Greenville, said today persons desiring fish for pond-stocking will be able to secure them under a rescue program soon to be inaugurated.

"We will have a schedule worked out so those desiring these fish for stocking purposes may know at what point they can be secured" Mr. Weathers said. "It will be necessary, however, for individuals to furnish their own transportation and containers, as the Commission will be using all available in the rescue program. Then, too, there is no provision for distribution by the commission."

Approximately 100,000,000 fish are to be rescued under the program to be carried on by the State Game and Fish Commission in cooperation with the Works Progress Administration. A recent WPA project calling for employment of 397 men for four months in this work has been approved, Senators Harrison and Bilbo advised the commission.

Preparatory to inauguration of the program, Charles R. Wiant, in charge of the federal fish hatchery at Marion, Ala., and formerly at Tupelo and in the delta, is in the state making a survey of the area. Under the program, fish are to be rescued from sloughs, pits, ponds and borrow pits which are drying up. The fish will be taken from these waters and placed in "holding ponds" or distributed to owners of private lakes and also placed in public waters.

"Mississippi has one of the greatest natural hatcheries along the Mississippi River," Mr. Wiant, who is accompanied by W. F. Dearman of the commission, said. "The only question is that of distributing these fish to those desiring them for re-stocking lakes and ponds."

Director Si Corley of the commission, said from studies to be made by Mr. Wiant that the commission hopes to formulate a permanent rescue program. He recalled that in previous years when this work was done by the commission without aid of the federal government, approximately 20,000,000 fish were saved from the drying-up streams.

In this program, the commission takes the fish from the shallow streams, and places them in movable containers with water temperature the same as that from which they are rescued. Cypress tanks lined with galvanized tin are used by the commission, which cautioned those who plan to secure some of the fish for re-stocking not to use lard barrels because the lard causes a thin coating over the top of the water ,shutting off air from the fish and results in their death.

While here, Mr. Wiant said his hatchery furnished fish to all sections, including Mississippi. Last year approximately 2,500,000 fish were distributed.

"No discrimination is shown in distribution of fish," Mr. Wiant explained. "We take care of the applications as they are received, regardless of distance from the hatchery."

He said that the Alabama conservation department was cooperating with the hatchery by allowing it to use their distribution trucks in handling orders in the state.

The fish rescue program was recently approved by the game and fish commission composed of, in addition to Mr. Weathers, Chairman W. E. McIntrye, of Brandon, Secretary Ben M. Stevens of Richton; Colonel Reuben R. Banks of Columbus, and Col. Edgar W. Wright, of Centerville.

MISSISSIPPI FARMERS TO MARKET 2,392,000 MELONS

Mississippi farmers will market 2,392,000 watermelons this season, according to an acreage and production forecast by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Growers cut their acreage from 12,400 acres last year to 8,700 this year. However, indications point to a yield of 275 melons per acre this year as compared to 250 melons per acre last year.

Low prices which prevailed last season probably accounted for the sharp reduction in acreage. Prices this season are averaging higher than a year ago.

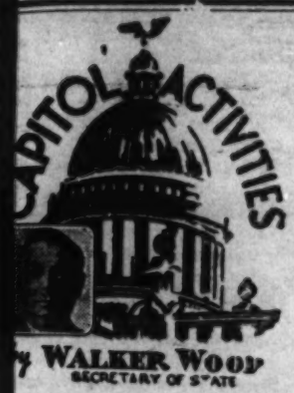
JOHN DEERE QUALITY IMPLEMENTS AND SERVICE



Deaths from motor vehicle accidents in Mississippi reached the enormous total of 525 in 1936, states Dr. R. N. Whitfield, director of vital statistics. Dr. Whitfield says there are many causes for these deaths and a list of these follow: (1) When cars or trucks hit pedestrians in 1936—148 were killed. (2) When collided in 1936 —38 deaths occurred. (3) When trucks collided in 1936—26 deaths (4) When trucks and cars collided —26 deaths. (5) From collisions of cars and trains—29 deaths. (6) Collisions of cars or trucks with immovable objects—17 deaths. (7) Cars leaving road and turning over—71 deaths. (8) Trucks leaving road and turning over—41 deaths. (9) Individuals falling from cars and trucks, and from unknown causes—105 deaths.

Doctor Whitfield shows further that a large majority of these deaths occurred between 12 o'clock noon, and 6 p. m. and most of the deaths were of persons between the ages of 21 and 34 years, and that 312 of the 1936 deaths were males and 213 females. His report shows that over ten per-cent of the total deaths from motor vehicle accidents were caused from drunken driving, and that at least 30 per cent more were due to drunken drivers.

As remedies, Dr. Whitfield suggests that the speed of all cars, except those driven by officers of the law, be regulated at the factory so that not over 50 miles per hour can be driven; that no mercy be shown to the drunken driver; that a uniform driver's license be enforced in every state and that citizens make greater use of public service transportation.

Under provisions of amendment to Section 24 of the Mississippi Constitution, inserted in the Constitution by the 1935 Legislature, the fiscal year for the State of Mississippi begins on July 1st, instead of on October 1st, as prior to the adoption of the amendment. Hence the new fiscal year opened on the first of this month. This occasioned the use of new privilege tax license in the auditor's office and tax commission department, also new pay warrants and receive warrants in the auditor's department.

All departments of state, except the Insurance Department and the Educational Department, being required to end their fiscal year on July 1st, are now busy, compiling their biennial reports to the next Legislature, for the biennium of July 1, 1935 to July 1, 1937.

The special House Investigating Committee, charged with investigating the State Land Commissioner's department, and the sale of tax forfeited lands in Mississippi, filed on Tuesday of last week, with the Governor, a 100-page report, showing their findings, arrived at during their six-months investigation period. The Clerk of the House of Representatives has had this report printed in pamphlet form and mailed out to the legislators.

The Land investigating committee is composed of Representatives Joe Owen, of New Albany, chairman; Walter Sillers, of Rosedale, and Claude C. Coates, of Pelahatchie, and associated with the committee as counsel, has been Representative John Armstrong, of Hazlehurst.

The report already turned in to the Governor, will be followed by two other reports, according to Chairman Owens, and these two reports will deal with recommendations for legislative changes in the land office system, and an audit of the land office accounts and records.

In the first report filed, and as published, Hon. R. D. Moore, veteran land commissioner, is charged with irregularities in office, and Senator J. M. Cooper, of Anguilla, who was employed in the land office for a period, is charged with appropriating to his own use $112.67 that belonged to the State. Others named in the report of the land committee are S. Bridgewater, representing the Russell Investment Co., of New Orleans, and S. B. Moore, a son of the land commissioner.

When first apprised of the charges made against him by the committee, Land Commissioner Moore's only comment was reported as being: "I might have something to say later;" is quoted as having entered a general denial of the charges made in the first report, stating that any charge that he misappropriated any funds belonging to the state "is absolutely false," telling newspaper men that he "would not discuss the details of the report until he had received a copy of committee's report."

Mr. Moore is 77 years of age, and has served as land commissioner for about 16½ years. He was appointed Land Commissioner on February 2, 1921, to fill out the unexpired term of the late M. A. Brown, who died in office. This unexpired term lasted until January, 1924. Mr. Moore has since served in this capacity for three full constitutional terms of four years each, and is now serving his fourth elective term of office.

Insurance Commissioner John Sharp Williams, III, has received official notice from L. O. Taylor, postal inspector of Shreveport, La., of the indictment of seven insurance company officials in the federal court at that place. The trials of these officials will occur at the fall term of the court at Shreveport.

Mr. Williams stated that the files of the Insurance Commissioner's office are filled with inquiries of companies that have been operating without charters, and the insurance commissioners of all states of the Union are banding together to take all possible steps to stamp out the wild-cat companies that are operating here and there.

Mr. Williams has contacted our senators and representatives in Congress, seeking their support of the Kitchen bill, which denies the use of mails to any insurance company in a state in which they are un-licensed. The Commissioner cites a case of a daughter of a well-to-do business man, who had two policies in an unlicensed company—one for $10,000 and the other for $15,000. When a claim was filed for collection, she was told that there were many claims ahead of hers, and that she would have to await her turn. Finally she was offered a settlement in full of $1777, payable monthly, $177.70 for ten months which she had to accept. It is such propositions as this, and the unlicensed companies which practice such frauds, that the Insurance Commissioner is trying to stamp out.

With the closing of the nineteenth convention of the Mississippi American Legion last week, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: Adrian Boyd, Clarksdale, State Commander; James M. Savery, Tupelo, Vice Commander; W. S. Shipman, Jackson, Vice Commander; and Edgar Wright, Centerville, Vice Commander. The following officers were chosen for the Auxiliary: Mrs. J. T. Lovern, Union, Vice President; Miss Marion Henry, Laurel, President; Mrs. M. J. Weeks, West Point, Historian, Hon. Walter Lee, of Jackson, was elected Grand Chef de Gare of the "Forty and Eight," and Gulfport was selected as the meeting place for the 1938 convention.

The Mississippi Legion not only has one of the largest memberships this year that it has enjoyed in the history of the organization, but it surpassed any other states of the Union in its membership quota, and will be the "spearhead" at the 24 hours parade at the National Legion Convention in New York City in September, will have the pick of the hotel accommodations there, and the most prominent seats in the Convention Hall, according to information from prominent legionnaires. Truly the American Legion of the Grand Old State of Mississippi marches on, and is accomplishing much in the training of better citizens among its members.

The State Board of Bar Examiners held the semi-annual examinations at the New Capitol last week, closing on July 7th. There were 39 applicants for license to practice law in Mississippi who took the examinations. The Bar Examiners are: S. E. Travis, of Hattiesburg; Eli Mitchell, of Corinth, and Gabe Jacobson, of Meridian.

WASHINGTON SUMMARY
(By Congressman A. L. Ford)

Neither the House nor the Senate was in session on Monday, having adjourned over the week-end for the Fourth of July. But the real fireworks were set off in the Senate on Tuesday when Majority Leader Joe T. Robinson moved to take up the President's plan to increase the membership of the United States Supreme Court. As soon as the Senate agreed to take up the original plan Mr. Robinson moved to substitute a compromise plan for the plan originally advanced by the President. The original measure was to allow the President to appoint six new justices outright. Robinson admitted that there was not enough support in the Senate to pass that and is now leading the fight for the compromise, which would allow the appointment of one new justice each year until there is a newly appointed man for each justice over the age of 75.

Senator Robinson occupied the floor for nearly all of the first day's debate and was much interrupted by Senators opposing the compromise. The remainder of the week was consumed by speeches for and against the compromise. Leaders of the fight to put the new men on the Bench have been, this week, besides Senator Robinson, Senator Hatch, of New Mexico and Senator Minton of Indiana. Leaders of the debate against the increase were Senators Wheeler, of Montana, O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, Burke, of Nebraska, Clark, of Missouri, Connally, of Texas, and McCarren, of Nevada, all Democrats.

Under the peculiar parliamentary situation prevailing any one Senator can object and thereby prevent any matter, other than the Court Bill, from being taken up. It appears that there will be nothing to report for several weeks but that the Senate is debating the Court plans. There is no telling how long the argument will last.

The House has completed consideration and disposition of all important matters and while the Senate is debating the Court plans will be more or less "marking time," handling matters of minor interest to the people. It does seem likely that Secretary Wallace's new 1937 Farm Bill may be presented to the House by the Committee on Agriculture, and this will incite considerable discussion before final disposition. This bill is designed to create an "over normal granary" and to establish a compulsory system of crop control.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY COTTON INSECT REPORT

State College, Miss., July 5—The average boll weevil infestation in Mississippi this week was approximately 3 per cent less than the preceding week. Examinations were made in 31 counties throughout the state by State Plant Board inspectors who found weevils present in 100 out of 115 fields visited or 87 per cent, as compared with 78 per cent last week. The average infestation for the state was 6 per cent of the squares infested compared with 9 per cent last week, 1 per cent in 1936 and 16 per cent in 1935.

Summarizing the reports received, R. P. Colmer, Chief Inspector of the board, says that the following counties showed infestation of 10 per cent or more: Attala, Calhoun, Copiah, Grenada, Leake, Monroe, Pike, Washington, and Yalobusha. However, there is a general infestation of weevils throughout the state that could cause considerable damage provided weather conditions become favorable for an increase in weevil population.

Leafworms have been reported causing dagame in southeastern Texas. None have been reported to the Plant Board from Louisiana or Mississippi.

CHARACTERS OR QUALITIES OF CORN RECENTLY LISTED

Ten of the characters or qualities that are important in a strain of corn were listed recently by specialists of the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station and the United States Department of Agriculture. A strain that is good in one area may not be good in another, but if, in a field test, a planting of corn ranks high in these ten respects, it is likely to be a good corn for that particular locality.

The characters are:

Adaptation to the length of season in which it is to be grown. High yield of good quality grain. Resistance to fungi and bacteria that cause diseases. The ability to repel, or not suffer from chewing bugs and other destructive insects. A strong root system that holds the plant erect in all weathers. Firm stalks that will not break down. Ability to germinate and grow in cold soil at planting time, and to continue to grow in cool weather in the fall. Ability to withstand extremes of heat and drought in summer. Capacity to use soil minerals and moisture efficiently. Location of ears at convenient height on the stalks.

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

The Federal AAA office in Washington this week approved Mississippi's soil conserving base at 1,-880,000 acres, exactly one million acres more than last year, reports T. M. Patterson, administrative officer in charge, AAA, Jackson. This means that farmers of the state can earn a million dollars more in soil building payments this year than last year. Patterson predicts that as a result of the increase in the state's soil conserving base, farmers of the state will plant a record acreage in winter cover crops this fall and give more attention to other approved soil building practices.

The 1937 Argentine cotton crop which early in the season had been forecast at 500,000 bales on the basis of the record planting of 3,015,000 acres, turned out to be only 192,000 bales. This compared with 363,000 bales last year from 763,000 acres. This year's crop was hit by drouth and a plague of locusts and cotton bollworms.

Power farming for small farms by 1938 is predicted by manufacturers. A complete power farming outfit, designed for the first time to meet the needs of the small farm, may be placed on the market early next year. Aimed to sell in the $1,000 class, the combination is expected to include a baby tractor, plow, planter, cultivator and small harvester, thus completing the cycle for basic agricultural machinery needs on most farms of 100 acres or less.

Livestock production is expanding and improving. During the past few weeks beef cattle breeders of the state have purchased some of the finest Hereford cattle in the country. Dairy farmers are joining herd improvement associations and giving more attention to selection and improvement of the best animals in their herds.

Profits in livestock production depend on good pastures, homegrown feed and high quality animals. Livestock and livestock products produced where pastures are the major feed cost three to four times less than where produced on feed harvested and fed. Under the AAA program, farmers can earn $3 an acre for seeding cropland to perennial grasses and clovers. The summer months offer the best time to improve pastures through the control of weeds by mowing.

County agents are reminding poultrymen that now is the best time to begin culling poultry flocks, particularly the early molters or any hens that go broody or quit laying. Farmers who sell eggs may improve the quality of their eggs by removing all males from the flock, gathering the eggs at least twice a day and holding them over night in a cool cellar before packing them in cases. It is also advisable to market eggs twice a week.

Cotton Report As Of July 1, 1937

The acreage of cotton in cultivation in the United States on July 1 is estimated by the Crop Reporting Board to be 34,192,000 acres, which is 10.4 per cent more than the 30,960,000 acres on July 1, 1936, but 17.5 percent less than the average for the 5-year period 1928-1932. This acreage compares with 28,197,000 acres in 1935, 27,-860,000 acres in 1934, 40,248,000 acres in 1933 and the 1928-1932 average of 41,424,000 acres.

Increases are shown in all States with the least expansion in Oklahoma and Texas, where increases of 3 percent and 7 percent respectively are indicated. Increases in the South Atlantic and South Central States range from 10 percent in Louisiana and Alabama to 1[illegible] in Louisiana and Alabama to 1[illegible] per cent in South Carolina and 28 percent in Florida. Georgia shows an increase of 15 percent; Mississippi and Arkansas, 12 percent and North Carolina, 11 per cent. The increase in California is indicated to be 67 percent, which following an increase of 68 percent in 1936 places the current year's acreage for the State at the high record of 618,000 acres.

The acreage of cotton in cultivation in Mississippi on July 1 is estimated at 3,371,000 acres, an increase of 12 percent over the 3,-010,000 acres in cultivation on July 1, 1936, but 16.1 percent less than the average acreage for the 5-year period 1928-1932. The 1936 acres compares 2,762,000 acres in 1935, 2,556,000 acres in 1934, 3,-791,000 acres in 1933, and the 1928-1932 average of 4,018,000 acres.

A report on probable production of lint cotton will be made by the Crop Reporting Board on August 9th.

MISS MARTHA McCORMICK, 4-H CLUB LEADER IS TO REPRESENT DELTA DIST.

(By Lottie Wood)

Miss Martha McCormick, Kirkman 4-H Club Leader, has been selected to represent the delta district at Farm and Home Week July 26-31. Her expenses will be paid by the State Home Demonstration Council. Miss McCormick was selected because of her excellent leadership with 4-H Club girls.

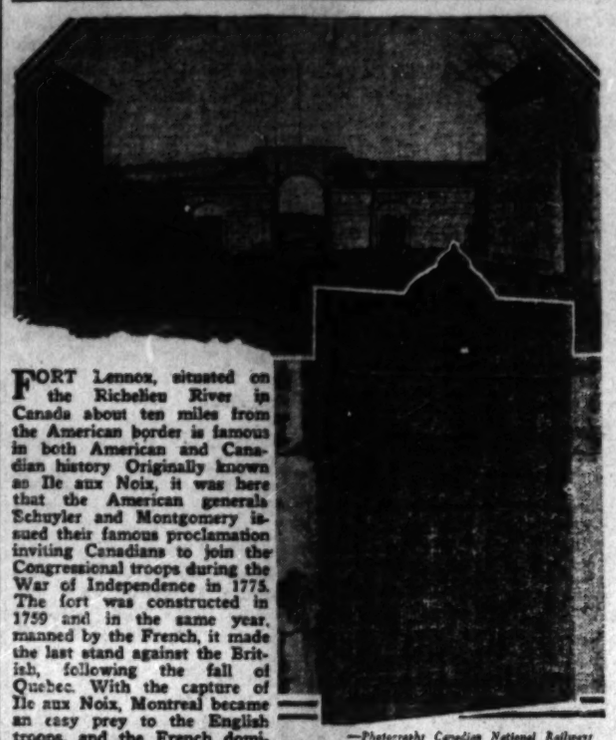
Every club girl in Kirkman club entered community contests and Sarah McCormick won first place in the County Contest. The entire club has records completed every year. In 1936, Juanita Floyd won fourth place in the State Contest in Garden Canning, and Sarah Katherine McCormick won second place with her home improvement exhibit at the Memphis Fair last fall.

The following 4-H club girls will leave Grenada Monday, July 19 to attend 4-H Club Congress at State College:

Sarah McCormick in first year poultry from Kirkman club; Elwanda Morman in second year poultry from Gore Springs club; Katherine Harrison in Home Improvement from Grenada club; Jessie Mae Morman in second year foods from Gore Springs club; Mary Douglas Foster in first year foods from Grenada club.

These girls won in their projects in the county contest and will compete with other contestants over the state for a trip to the National Club Congress this fall.

HIGHROADS OF HISTORY



FORT Lennox, situated on the Richelieu River in Canada about ten miles from the American border is famous in both American and Canadian history. Originally known as Ile aux Noix, it was here that the American generals Schuyler and Montgomery issued their famous proclamation inviting Canadians to join the Congressional troops during the War of Independence in 1775. The fort was constructed in 1759 and in the same year, manned by the French, it made the last stand against the British, following the fall of Quebec. With the capture of Ile aux Noix, Montreal became an easy prey to the English troops, and the French domination of Canada ended. The fort, renamed Fort Lennox, also figured prominently in the war of 1812. It was abandoned in 1870. In 1921 it was reconstructed and is now one of the official historical sites of the dominion and is visited annually by many Americans. The photographs show the gate of the fort and the plaque erected by the Historical Sites Board of Canada.

Southern Pulpwood Industry Launches Conservation Program

When the leading members of the American Pulpwood Association met in conference at New Orleans in May, a program of conservation of Southern pine forests was launched which should help to solve a problem that has troubled conservationists since the advent of the paper industry to the southern pine regions. This was the opinion expressed by Joseph C. Kircher, Southern Regional Forester of the U. S. Forest Service, Atlanta, Ga., in commenting on the meeting.

The members present at this conference, representing a large section of the pulpwood industry in the South, accepted a conservation policy looking toward the establishment of the pulpwood lands of the South as a permanent source of production. For the purposes of administration, the South was divided into four districts, over each of which a representative of the industry will maintain supervision. The pulp and paper mills in Mississippi, Alabama and West Florida were assigned to Group 3.

At their meeting in Mobile, Ala. Group 3 adopted the first cutting and conservation rules to bring about better forest practices on company-owned and non-company lands. "Although the rules adopted at the Mobile meeting fall far short of what is required to prevent depletion of growing stock, they will prevent devastation in most cases," Regional Forester Kircher said. He also stated that the U. S. Forest Service is cooperating with the industry in its attempt to keep the forest lands of the South in a productive condition.

The rules adopted by this group provide for leaving at least four thrifty seed trees per acre where less than 75 seedlings are not already established. They also provide that stands of timber 7 inches or less in diameter at the stump may be thinned so as to leave an average of 75 trees per acre.

The group also agreed to assist the State and Federal agencies in obtaining better fire control and to work with the various State Foresters in solving local problems. They agreed further to use for pulpwood, where possible, the waste left behind logging operations and to work with the turpentine industry in the cutting of their worked-out timber.

The rules were admittedly a first step and are subject to revision at the end of 90 days. Regional Forester Kircher believes that better methods will result from these rules and that they will be improved as the companies work out their forest practices. The enforcement of the rules lies entirely in the hands of the industry.

4-H Club Girls Promise to Set New Record at The State Club Congress

Mississippi 4-H Club girls promise to set a new record at this year's State Club Congress, which will be held at State College on July 20-23.

Miss Elaine Massey, state girls' club agent, announces that a total of 565 girls who won in county contests have entered the state contests under direction of the club division and extension subject matter specialists. Only girls who have previously won in community and county competition are eligible.

At the state contest, each girl will try to carry out perfectly the instructions given her by the home demonstration agent and the leader in the home community.

Home Improvement, Class I, tops all the other groups with entries from 68 counties, while vegetable judging follows closely with 65 counties competing.

Other contests include Foods, Class I, with 34; Foods, Class II, with 25; Clothing, Class I, with 39; Clothing, Class II, with 33; Poultry, Class I, with 59; Poultry, Class II, with 34; and Food Preservation, with 49. The Well-Groomed Contest has been recently added, but is represented by entries from 29 counties.

The girls who take part in state competition represent 1917 girls who won in community contests. The responsibility for preparation and careful work has been emphasized to the girls as a part of their 4-square training.

Forty-five girls who have excelled in leadership activities in their counties will assist the contestants with their preparation for competition. Ten teams will put on demonstrations in various activities of homemaking. Seventeen girls will compete in showing the results of healthy living and improvement of health habits.

While these local champions compete for state honors on Tuesday of Club Congress, the hundreds of other girls present will take part in educational tours about the college, and will be preparing for winnings in years to come.

Miss Massey says that plans have been made for adequate instruction, along with opportunity for recreation, inspiration, and widening of horizons for the girls who come. Crafts work will occupy a prominent place on the schedule of the week so that every girl can be thrifty in the use of materials that are easily obtainable at home. The watchword of this year is "Thrift."

WASHINGTON PARADE

By Ray Johnson and Walter Pierce

Washington, D. C.—Sitting in her high-ceilinged office in the Labor Department, Secretary Perkins has finally answered the oft-repeated question business has been asking: "What next?"

The plaint of American industry was repeated to her:

"If you will tell us what to expect, we might be able to take the medicine already prescribed—if we were certain there wasn't going to be any more."

Back came the reply, straight from the heart.

"There isn't going to be any more. If business participates and cooperates fully in what we have now, including the proposed wages and hours law."

If you belong to the feminine sex and contemplate a political career, you will do well to take thought to your hosiery. Constituents, women Congressmen tell us, demand that their Representatives wear dark hose and not too sheer either. Tactful letters reach our women legislators hinting as to the proper apparel to wear.

One of the ladies tells of a snapshot taken in her garden, one warm days some weeks back, which somehow reached the public prints. Several constituents wrote in to say that it "wasn't proper or befitting the dignity of a Congressional Representative to wear a short dress without sleeves."—And this is supposed to be an enlightened age!

It's always open season for paradoxes and inconsistencies in Washington. Tom Girdler, the steel magnate proved one not long ago. Applauded by certain elements for his fortright, if hardly tolerant, remarks about the steel dispute, Girdler called a dozen newspapermen to a private cocktail party. Suddenly he began to comment on the personalities involved in the controversies with a frankness comparable only to the more pungent passages of the uninhibited Elizabethian. He finished with the invitation to "put that in your papers."

Then, just as impulsively, after the stories had been sent out (duly censored by the pious eyes of editorial desks) he got his recent guests on the phone, imploring them, too late, not to print what he had said.

Disciples of Father Divine and who have repented their sins are revealed among contributors to "conscience funds" of the nation's railroads.

Erstwhile hoboes who "rode the rods" or passengers who gypped the conductor out of a railroad ticket as far back as 1900 have become conscience-stricken under the preachments of the dusky man who calls himself "god". And they are paying back the railroads in hard cash of the same variety that has swelled the little negro's coffers into a state of wealth.

Now we know why railroads and other public utilities are strong for evangelists and others who help sinners into the so-called straight and narrow path.

A lass in the Department of Commerce had her ears folded back by shock the other morning. She is a secretary to one of the officials in the aviation section and was quietly laboring over her typewriter when a lady entered, looked at a picture on the wall and asked. "Is that an official of this department?" The girl gasped. "Huh," she stuttered, "why—it's Lindbergh." "And who is he? Never heard of him," said the old lady, dismissing the incident. The poor girl isn't over the shock yet.

STATE PLANT BOARD SAYS

Growers who intend shipping cotton seed for planting purposes into Louisiana, Oklahoma or Texas should apply to the Plant Board at State College, Miss., for an inspection of their cotton before August 1. The above named states require that cotton seed shipped to points within their borders be inspected for disease while growing in the field.

Monthly Soviet Wage Equals $12

The average monthly wage of the Russian worker is worth no more than $10 or $12 would be in the United States, according to W. H. Chamberlain, well known author of numerous books about Russia.

Writing in his latest book, "Collectivism: A False Utopia," Mr. Chamberlain states: "The Russian people, if one may accept the plain evidence of Soviet statistics, are worse fed than they were two decades ago."

According to a recent Soviet statistical estimate, Mr. Chamberlain points out, the average monthly wage of all workers and employes in 1935 was 190 rubles; whereas before the war the monthly wage of manual labor, not counting "employees," who were somewhat more highly paid, was 25 or 30 rubles. This, he says, allowing for relative buying power, was probably equal to $18 or $20 in American money. On the face of the figures, then, money wages in 1935 were from six to eight times as high as they were in 1913.

But considering present prices and the cost of living in Russia—70 rubles for an ordinary pair of shoes, 250 rubles for a shoddy winter coat, 14 rubles for a kilogram of butter, and so on—it is found that the ruble is not worth more than five or six cents, and that the average monthly wage of 190 rubles is worth no more than $10 or $12 would be here.

With regard to the peasants, who still constitute the great bulk of the population, Mr. Chamberlin writes:

"If the standard of living of the Russian worker resembles that of the unemployed in America and Western Europe, the status of the peasant as regards food, housing and clothing, is comparable with that of the poor share-cropper, indeed, the economic position of the whole Russian peasantry is that of share-croppers, with an all-powerful state as landlord, telling them what and how much they must deliver to the towns, how much they may keep and what they shall receive for their labor."

MISSISSIPPI 4-H GIRLS COMPETE FOR STYLE HONORS—CHICAGO TRIP PRIZE

Mississippi 4-H club girls again have the opportunity to compete in the National 4-H Style Dress Revue which begins with club and county revues.

The "Queen" in each county revue receives a handsome gold medal of honor, and the other three class winners gold-filled pins. All other participants receive silver pins. County "queens" will compete for state honors at State College, July 21, where state extension leaders will award one girl an all-expense trip to represent the state in the national revue in Chicago December 1 during the National 4-H Club Congress.

Contestants have a choice of one of four costumes to make and model: (1) wash dress or suit for school or sport; (2) wool dress, suit or ensemble, for school, sport or street wear; (3) best dress or ensemble, including dress; (4) informal party dress. National revue queens will each receive a 17-jewel gold watch, which with all other prizes and trips is provided by the Chicago Mail Order Company as sponsors. Extension agents conduct and judge all contests.

State style revue queens for last year and preceding are Helen Allen of Vicksburg; Mary E. Cox of Madison Station; Almetus McKinley, Vicksburg; Sarah Walker, Enterprise; Etoile Day, Bovinia; Helen Hayes, Canton, and Ruth Brisco, Red Banks. Miss McKinley was national class winner in 1934.

Pontiac Sales Are Highest on Record

With payrolls and employment at an all-time high, the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors crossed the mid-year mark with production and sales more than 30 per cent higher than on the best previous first half-year of record, H. J. Klingler, general manager announced today.

Despite strikes in supplying companies cut into production during the first half of 1937, the Division in the six months ended July 1, built 131,254 new cars as compared with 97,978 in the comparable period of 1936, which was the previous high and in the first six months of this year sold at retail in the domestic market 121,437 new cars as compared with 95,502 in the first half of 1936, Mr. Klingler stated.

"June closed exceptionally strong," Mr. Klingler added, "indicating a good automobile market later into the year than is customarily true. This June was the best Pontiac June we have had, with several new records set during the month. We built 27,935 cars as compared with 18,747 last June, and on the 17th of the month our plant men turned out 1,521 cars for the highest single production day in the Pontiac record. And we finished the month with 11,450 employes on our payrolls, the largest number we have ever had; and those employees were receiving by far the highest wages yet paid here.

"Latest available registration figures disclose that this year-to-date, as compared with last year, the industry as a whole was up about ten per cent whereas the Pontiac gain was thirty per cent. The same figures disclose that, as compared with last year, Pontiac made the third largest numerical gain in the industry.

"This splendid public endorsement of the product is gratifying not only to the management but also to Pontiac plant workmen. The most obvious present result of outside strikes which cut down our production is that at the close of June dealers considerably fewer new cars in stock than in the same date last year. Consequently we will have to run stronger this year than last in order to complete our quota of cars of the current series.

"Through June 30 we had built and shipped 191,569 models of the 1937 series. We have already contracted for materials to build 236,000 of these models, which compares with a total production last year of 173,000 of the 1936 models.

This improvement is due in large measure to the excellent work of the Pontiac selling force, particularly our stronger dealers. Although used cars have been causing some concern in the industry, Pontiac dealers are now in much better shape than they have been at various times in the past, and finished June with less than 1,000 more used cars than on March 31, at the beginning of the peak selling season.

"All this presages well for the future—so much so that we have recently let contracts for the construction of three new plant units in anticipation of continuing growth in production and sales."

Sincerely your friend, and the friend of your Company,
W. B. HOFFA.

Chicago, June 24, 1937.

Dear Mr. Hoffa:

We are grateful for the friendly interest you and other Grenada people have in the Illinois Central, and I thank you for your letter. I need not tell you that we also have a warm regard for Grenada and that it always has been and always will be our purpose to do all the things we can do to promote the welfare of your fine city.

It is true the floods did much damage to our property in Paducah and elsewhere a few months ago. However, the damage has been repaired, and we are not contemplating any change in the location of our shops or offices. If the time should come when we might decide to move, you may be sure that the advantages afforded by Grenada will not be overlooked.

You have done much to benefit Grenada and the Illinois Central, and I wish to assure you of our appreciation.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,

than the amount made available, the difference will be reinbursed to the board. If the money is made available, warrants should be issued to Even Ford, Chairman, Mississippi Rural Electrification Authority.

Whenever men competent to make these surveys can be found in the counties where they are to work, preference will be given them; and a conference will be held with the Board before definite action is taken.

The counties of Franklin, Lawrence, Jefferson Davis, Simpson, Jones, Tallahatchie, and Yalobusha, through their boards of supervisors have appropriated the money necessary to survey these counties.

A definite sum of money is set aside for each of the forty-eight states each year, and if you will give us your cooperation we can complete your survey this fall and file the application with Washington before the end of this year.

All of the injunctions blocking the development of the TVA have been set aside and in a meeting at Tupelo a few days ago with TVA officials, they advised me that as soon as they know how much power will be required for farms and cities in Mississippi who will want their service, they will take prompt action to supply it.

Thanking you very much for your cooperation and hoping to hear from you early in July, I am more tons of feed than we did last year, and consequently that more of the cotton dollars will belong to the farmer at the end of the year. 1937 looks like another year of prosperity."

in the battle, says that General Forest could be heard swearing over the whole army, at the blunder being made in allowing Schofield to intrench. But not theirs to reason why. Theirs to do and die.

When morning dawned the Southern boys found themselves facing forty-two thousand, firmly intrenched Northerners, armed with 1* shot Henry rifles and heavy artillery, and field guns throwing 64 lb. shells. The Confederates had two miles of open territory to cover to reach them. The Confederates were already out-numbered and had only single shot rifles and light cannons ,but never did the Southern soldiers quail in the face of fearful odds.

I now quote my father, Ed Jones Boushe: "The cannon on each side opened up fighting. It was an awe inspiring sight. Great shells could be seen in mid-air; sometime I could see shells hitting the enemy works, throwing up clouds of dirt and dust. It is strange what little things one may notice in such trying times. I noticed a dog running back and forth howling, and a chicken on the battle field. and leaves from the trees behind. The bullets were cutting the bark us. The commanding of fury suddenly ceased and we were ordered forward with the bayonette." The time was 2 o'clock and the Southern boys advanced as coolly as men on parade, yet they knew they were entering jaws of death. The officers were in the lead, encouraging the boys. The 15th Mississippi was in the division of General Adams, and the Grenada Rifles held the center of the 15th. Col. Mike Farrell marched at their head; the band played "Dixie." The silence was for the moment oppressive, but only for a moment. The inferno broke loose. The Confederates charging through open space were torn by shot and shell. Never before or since has such carnage been witnessed on American soil. Thirteen out of twenty-six officers of the 15th went down. Half of the men were killed or wounded. General Adams fell in the front of the fight. The gallant Mike Farrell of the 15th fell, and Col. Binford of Duck Hill took his place. "Col. Binford brought Farrell's war horse, "Bullet," home from the war and gave him an honored place until death." Two bearers fell in the carnage.

Again I quote my father: "My two cousins, Tom Moore and Frank Moore, brothers, were together in the charge, in fact, had been side by side during the entire war. Suddenly Frank fell. I could see the look of anguish on Tom's face, but he had to keep on. In a few minutes I felt a numb pain in my shoulder and my rifle fell from my hand. I knew I was shot and turned to run. I loked back once and saw Tom and Mr. Dement standing upon the Yankee forts, fighting hand to hand with the Yankees. I tried to go to where Frank was shot, but the ground was so covered with dead that I never recognized him. Just as I got to the ravine and safety, another bullet, or piece of shell struck me in the hip. I went down and fell across a man who was all but shot in half, but who was still living.

I crawled into the ravine which was filled with wounded ,dead and dying. That was the end of the battle for me. I stayed there till night, and was put in the hospital. Tom came to see me after the battle, and cried. His brother was dead. He said he could not see why it had to be." Why we must always fight.

My father was up and fighting again in the battle of Nashville, 15 days later though still sore and stiff. But back to the battle. Eleven generals were killed in the Southern side. Adams, Carter, Celebroune, Grist ,Strall, and Granverry were all stretched up on one gallery, dead. The carnage continued until eleven o'clock. Walthall's horse was shot from under him, and then as if by mutual consent the fighting lulled. A truce was called to gather in the wounded.

I now quote Capt. Jim Crowder, "It was a frightful charge but full of glory. In the truce that followed, I saw a Southern soldier, dead, his back to a tree, and around him were several dead Yankees whom he had killed. Two Yankees looking at him said, 'these Southerners never show their backs,' always face the foe."

I now quote Mr. Dick Bowles of Grenada Rifles, He said that some yankees asked him what regiment held the center and he told them the 15th Miss. He said to his companion, "Didn't I tell you Mississippi would charge Hell with a barlow knife'?'

I now narrate an incident of the Battle: Mr. Wesley Peacock of Grenada Rifles had no gun in the battle but took an ax. After the battle, he returned with a sixteen shot Henry rifle and ammunition. A negro "Gluff" brought back the ax next day, from a Cedar thicket and said that Mr. Peacock had killed several Yankees with the ax. Mr. Peacock has relatives in Grenada today.

The next day the Yankees were in full retreat. When before has an army, inferior in number and equipment, driven a superior from intrenchement?

But victory at such a frightful price! In Southern manhood. Scarcely a Grenada family but had its crepe for friends or relatives.

Morning pictured a sad retrospect. The ground was strewn with dead, some impalled on the sharpened limbs of the felled Cedars. The breast works were filled with dead from both sides. We had won a Pyrrian victory. It was the beginning of the end. Schofield retreated to Nashville and reintrenched with Thomas. Hood with twenty-six thousand remaining men tried to repeat the charge at Franklin, believing Southern valor invincible, but Thomas, now numbering eighty-thousand heavily armed men, came from behind the works at Nashville and literally cut them to pieces, as recorded in the last article, "The Fifteen Mississippi." As well as whole army and Cause were ruined, but never can their glory fade.

This has all long since passed. Those who lived through it now rest in the shade of the trees on the other side with those who died in battle, and the wrongs we have endured, are largely forgotten and forgiven, as they who bore the brunt of battle who won the laurels that can never fade, would have us do.

and water," Dr. Fraser remarked. "They should be carefully controlled along these lines. Children either observe the balance of the Health Hints without knowing that they are doing so or, because of their youth and vitality, they can afford to ignore them.. For instance, a child may rush around all day long without a hat, frequently out in the sun, and show no ill effects. On the other hand, they instinctively prefer a minimum of clothing and will sleep readily, if they are tired.

"Adults, however, should avoid going out without a hat. They should also drink sparingly of 'ice cold' liquids and, very important, see to it that they get plenty of sleep and rest. In addition, grown people should refrain from expending great qualities of energy in needless haste. On hot days take it easy."

Two Common Hot Weather Ailments

Sunstroke and Heatstroke, Dr. Fraser points out, are two hot weather ailments that are quite common, though very different in their symptoms and in the way they affect the stricken individual. Both Sunstroke and Heatstroke can be avoided by following the Health Hints for Hot Weather.

Sunstroke

Sunstroke can be avoided by keeping out of the hot sun and by not overdoing in physical exercise. An attack frequently begins with nausea, giddiness and mental excitement, following a long exposure to the sun. The face is flushed, the pulse full and rapid.

The first thing to do is remove the patient to a cool spot and then send for a doctor immediately. Reduce the body temperature by placing the patient in a cold bath, sponging the surface of the body with cold water or rubbing the body with ice.

Keep up the treatment for ten or fifteen minutes and then place the patient between blankets without drying the body. If there is no improvement within fifteen minutes, repeat the cold applications as before and keep repeating them every fifteen minutes until consciousness is well established.

Sometimes after apparent recovery, the patient becomes drowsy again and the head becomes hot. The treatment must then be repeated as before.

"Those who are forced to work in the open sunlight," Dr. Fraser explained, "should see to it that they wear a hat that protects the back of the neck as well as the top of the head and their clothing should not be close fitting or bind the body. Furthermore, they should take great care to drink large amounts of cool water or cool, weak tea to make up for the excessive amounts of moisture lost by the body through perspiration."

Heatstroke

Heatstroke differs from Sunstroke in that it does not depend on exposure to the sun, but may attack a person during extremely hot, humid weather. It is characterized by sudden fainting attacks, the body is cold and clamy, the face pale, the pulse weak and flighty and a gasping or sighing respiration.

First send for the doctor .Then apply heat to the patient's feet and around the body. If the patient is conscious and can swallow, give quantities of hot, weak tea.

Sweet Potato Starch Exhibit at State Fair to Be of Value to Farmers

Can farmers grow sweet potatoes for starch production at prices offered by processing plants?

This question has aroused statewide interest. An attempt will be made to give a scientific answer to the problem in a comprehensive exhibit at the 1937 Mississippi Free State Fair, to be held in Jackson, October 11-16.

How much does it cost to grow sweet potatoes? What kind of soil will produce the biggest yield? What varieties are richest in starch? What kind and how much fertilizer should be used?

These and many other questions which farmers are interested in will be answered in the informational display as far as available data will make it possible to give the right answer.

Factual data will be reinforced by actual exhibits of the different varieties of potatoes and potato products. Studies showing relation of costs to yields and other factors will be shown.
